

Employees Who Volunteer For The Community

Telco Antennas recognises the invaluable and crucial contribution of volunteers who support Australian society and as global citizens through their actions overseas. With this ethos in mind we endeavour to support our employees who make the selfless decision to join volunteer organisations as much as is within the company's power. Some of the organisations that Telco Antennas employees volunteer include:

State Emergency Service (SES)

The State Emergency Service is a national organisation of volunteers – 'ordinary people doing extraordinary things'. The SES consists of thousands of unpaid volunteers from a variety of backgrounds and professions who respond to emergencies and disasters across the Nation, 24/7. They are trained and equipped to help their communities across a range of functions, and their primary purpose is to assist the most vulnerable members of the community. Some of the roles of the SES include assisting during emergencies such as; cyclones, storms, floods, rescues and searching for missing persons. Telco Antennas makes concessions for employees who require time away from work to help during disasters/emergencies.

Surf Life Saving

Surf Life Saving Queensland is the peak safety and rescue authority in the state. To watch over the millions of beach-goers that visit our coastline SLSQ's lifesaving services are provided through a network of volunteer lifesavers, professional lifeguards, operations support, beach management systems and community awareness programs. Telco staff are proud to wear the red and yellow that is so iconic to Australia's beach image.

Australian Defence Force (ADF) - Reservists

Reservists make vital contributions to the defence and security of Australia, and to Australia's contribution to the global community as good world citizens. Reservists may be deployed on operations overseas or in Australia. These can range from peacekeeping operations to humanitarian and emergency relief in times of natural disasters. Telco Antennas will provide employees with any required time off work in order to fulfil their ADF volunteer obligations.

To demonstrate support of the ADF in this service we endorse the following statement:

“All Australians share responsibility for our national security, including a capable and resilient Australian Defence Force with permanent and reserve components. Accordingly, we pledge support to our employees/students who serve our Nation as Australian Defence Force Reservists, and we acknowledge the skills and other attributes which they bring to the workplace.”
